The Washington News

A Number of Senators Objecting to Harrison's Appointments.

HALSTEAD NOT CONFIRMED.

The Democrats Vote Solidly Against Him, and With the Addition of Several Republicans Things Begin to Look a Little Discouraging—Various Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The senate in secret session discussed the nomination of Murat Halstead to be minister to Germany. The nomination was hotly debated, the criticism of Mr. Halstead coming principally from the Republican side of the chamber. The principal cause of grievance against Mr. Halstead was his criticism of the course of certain Republican senators during the investigation of the election of Senator Payne. The criticisms of Mr. Halstead were quoted from a file of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette in the senate chamber by Republican senators. Senator Sherman defended Mr. Halstead while Senators Ingalls and Teller led the attack upon him.

A vote on the nomination resulted in its rejection, the Democrats voting solidly against it, and the votes of Senators Ingalls, Cullom, Farwell, Jones, of Nevada, and Teller being recorded in the negative also. When it was evident that the nomination would be rejected Senator Sherman changed his vote from affirmative to negative, that he might be in position to enter a motion for reconsideration. That motion was entered, and was pending when the senate adjourned.

Mr. Halstead's friends will rally to his support and endeavor to obtain a reversal of this judgment. Senators Beck and Blackburn are quoted as saying that they will vote for Mr. Halstead. A Republican senator stated that if the nomination was not withdrawn it would be rejected. Mr. Halstead's friends say that it will not be withdrawn.

The Tariff on Wool.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The American manufacturers of wool and worsted goods were given a hearing by the assistant secretary of the treasury yesterday. The question under discussion was the present tariff duty imposed upon wool and worsted goods. The manufacturers presented the argument that the difference in the cost of the manufacture of woolen and worsted goods being so great that there should be a greater difference in the tariff duty imposed. Mr. W. Whitman presented the case for the manufacturers and Mr. E. Werner for the importers. Assistant Secretary Maynard took the matter under advisement.

Removal of Naval Officers.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Capt. O. F. Stanton has been detached from the command of the naval station, New London; Lieutenant Commander William H. Emory from the command of the Yantic and placed on waiting orders; Lieutenant Commander Samuel Belden from duty at the naval station, New London, and placed on waiting orders; Lieut. Wells L. Field from the nautical school ship, St. Marys, and placed on waiting orders; Paymaster J. Q. Barton from the Mare Island navy yard, and ordered to settle accounts and wait orders.

Appointments.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The president has sent to the senate the following nominations.

Cassius M. Barnes, of Arkansas, to be receiver of public moneys at Guthrie, Indian Territory.

John I. Dille, of Indiana, to be register of the land office at Guthrie, Indian Territory.

Charles E Monteith, of Idaho, to be agent for the Indians of the Nez Perces agency in Idaho.

And a number of postmasters.

Twelve Thousand Persons Dead.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The secretary of state has received a communication from the United States consul at Pernambuco, Brazil, giving an alarming account of the effects of drouth in the province of Ceard during the summer season. Many plantations lost all their cattle and more than 12,000 persons died. The province of Espirito Santo has declared quarantine against Rio de Janiero, because of the prevalence of yellow fever in that city.

Getting Too Old.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—It is stated that the president said a few days ago that he did not intend to make a change in the office of commissioner of railroads, now held by Gen. Joseph E. Johnston. Gen. Sherman, it is said, has made a special request that Gen. Johnston be retained. The commissioner is now 82 years old, but in spite of his advanced years he is able to attend to the business of the office.

President Harrison's Envelope.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—President Harrison received his first month's salary Wednesday. It amounted to $3,888.88, and was delivered to him in the form of a treasury draft. It was for the month of March, minus the first three days. Mr. Cleveland received the president's salary for that portion of the month.

New Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The senate has confirmed the nomination of John C. New, to be consul general at London.

Washington Items.

The comptroller of the currency has authorized the Big Bend National bank of Davenport, Washington territory, to begin business with a capital of $50,000.

Orders have been sent to Rear Admiral Greer, commanding the United States naval force on the European station to direct the Quinnebaug to proceed at an early day to the United States.

Indian Commissioner Oberly has made a special award of stock, cattle, etc., to various contractors for Indians at several northwestern agencies. The total amount of the award is about $80,000.

Second Lieut. Frederick R. Day, of the signal service corps, has been ordered to proceed from Washington on a visit of inspection to the signal service stations in the west and northwest, and pass upon the condition of property.

Commissioner of Pensions Tanner has appointed A. W. Fisher, of North Carolina, chief clerk in the pension office, in place of W. F. Brock, resigned. Mr. Fisher was chief clerk under Commissioner Dudley, and acted as assistant chief clerk under Gen. Black.

John B. Day, president of the New York base base club, will arrive here at 11 o'clock to-morrow night from Florida. He will be joined by Walter Howett, president of the Washington club, and together they will take the midnight train for New York, there to consult with John M. Ward about a contract for the coming season.

RUN DOWN AT SEA.

An Old Dominion Steamship Runs Into and Sinks a Schooner.

NORFOLK, Va., March 29.—The Old Dominion steamship Wyanoke, from New York arrived here last night five hours late, after having been in collision off Delaware capes with the schooner Ruth Darling, at 2:15 yesterday morning. At the time of the collision a dense fog prevailed which was so thick that the man in the schooner's bow says he could not see ahead more than half the vessel's length. When the Wyanoke struck the schooner her sharp bows cut clear through her and she sank ten minutes afterwards. As the Wyanoke struck the schooner, Arthur Ashton, seaman, jumped from the rigging and caught her anchor chains and thus saved himself.

Capt. Lowell, who was at the schooner's hold at the time of the disaster, and Seaman Charles Harrison, were lost. Chief Mate Bradford Brown was insensible when rescued from the paddle wheel of the ship, which he had caught hold of as it passed over him. He had his nose and right shoulder broken and there was a terrible gash over his forehead. On the arrival of the ship here he was at once sent to St. Vincent's hospital where he now lies in a precarious condition. Ambrose Harrison, Frank Sreptoe and another seaman were saved by means of ropes thrown from the steamer.

After the Estate.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 29.—Frederick E. Brett, of Chicago, now in this city, who sought recently to get possession of his 8-year-old niece, who was in East Greenbush, now proposes to institute habeas corpus proceedings to recover possession of the child. The child, who is both mentally and physically infirm, is heir to an estate valued at about $60,000, left by her parent, who died in Michigan. It seems that the father on his death bed expressed the wish that his brother, Frederick E. Brett, should be the child's guardian, but the mother's brother, Frank A. Clark, to whom, by the will, the property would revert should the child die before she is 21 years old, obtained letters of guardianship in Kalamazoo, Mich., and placed her with Miss Landon, Mrs. Brett's sister, who brought the child to Greenbush. Brett took out letters of guardianship in Massachusetts, and the fight is between the two uncles.

Texas Pastimes.

EL PASO, Tex., March 29.—Four Americans from El Paso shot and killed two Mexican policemen last night in Paso Del Norte. The Americans were raising considerable disturbance by shooting off their pistols and overturning apple stands, when the police attempted to arrest them. One of the Americans opened fire on the officers and shot one dead. The ball went in at the back of the Mexican's neck and came out through his tongue. A second shot brought down the second policeman fatally wounded. The American rowdies then ran for the river, closely pursued by Mexican soldiers. Three of them jumped into the Rio Grande and swam across to this side, while the fourth crossed on the bridge and was fired at three times by the Mexican guard. Fully 200 Mexicans came over to El Paso to demand the arrest of the guilty parties. Everybody here is greatly excited.

Wanamaker Entertained.

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—Postmaster General Wanamaker was entertained at dinner at the house of Mayor Fitler last night. The guests arrived at a little past 7, and Mayor Fitler, with Mr Wanamaker's hand resting in his arm, led the way to the feast. The table and room was rich and handsome without striking one as showy. Among those present were Governor Beaver, George W. Child's, James Dobson, Dr. William Pepper, William M. Singerly, Charles Emory Smith, and other distinguished guests. Letters of regret were read from Senator Cameron: Senator Quay, A. J. Drexel, Samuel J. Randall, Robert S. Davis, and others.

It is Rejected.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The executive committee of the Northern Pacific Railroad company has rejected the proposed traffic agreement with the Wisconsin Central Railroad company, and discussed a modified agreement which will be forwarded to the executive offices of the two companies for consideration. Another meeting will be held next week. The original agreement was deemed too favorable to the Wisconsin Central.

Through the Straits.

DETROIT, Mich., March 29.—The City of New Baltimore arrived from St. Clair and Marine City yesterday. She is the first boat this season. The ice closed in behind her, and blocked the river nearly down to Marine City. Very low water is reported, due to the insignificant snowfall and no rains. The government cut has two feet less water than ordinary. The earliest passage ever made through the straits was March 14, 1878.

Fast Horses at Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., March 29.—Budd Doble has written President Camper that he will use the Detroit driving park as a training place for his string of horses this year. Doble has engaged stables for May. A. A. Trip, of Saginaw, arrived at the park yesterday with a string of six horses which he intends to train for the coming season.

His Life for a Shoat.

VERSAILLES, Ky., March 29.—Abner Askew and Richard Yates, farmers near here, quarreled Wednesday over the ownership of a shoat. Askew pistoled Yates to death.

Late Foreign News.

The Cream of the Cable Carefully Condensed.

MR. GLADSTONE BACK HOME

He Is Ready to Deliver the Eulogy on the Late John Bright in the British House of Commons—Many Other Little Happenings Across the Ocean.

LONDON, March 29.—Mr. Gladstone returned last night from Scotland where he has buried his brother to pronounce a eulogy over the remains of a man, who, until recent years had been his close friend and associate for a half a life time. Mr. Gladstone shows no signs of fatigue resulting from his tedious journey, and it is expected that his eulogy on John Bright in the house of commons will be one of the most masterful efforts of his life. Not a seat will be empty on the floor of the house, and the applications for admission to the galleries is so great that scarcely a tenth of those desirous of attending can be accommodated.

All the evening papers are filled with biographical sketches and anecdotes of the great Englishman just dead. On this occasion, at least, the ancient injunction to "speak no ill of the dead," is faithfully carried out.

Mr. Lincoln's appointment to the English mission is universally approved here, where he is known better as the son of Abraham Lincoln than for any individual merit. The papers, while they speak favorably of the new minister, do not make much comment, because they know very little of Mr. Lincoln. The American colony in London has already begun preparations for a suitable reception to the new incumbent of the diplomatic office.

The statement that the proposed banquet to be given Mr. Parnell by the National Liberal club has been abandoned is emphatically denied by the managers of the affair. They are still looking for a hall large enough for the occasion and have not the slightest intention of giving up the banquet.

The Cologne Gazette in a careful and evidently inspired article says that it would be surprised if the American government did not send a minister to Germany until after the Samoan conference had been held. "If not," says the Gazette, "the minister and ambassador who will represent the other two powers at the conference will outrank the American delegates and embarrass the conference."

Kaiser William has ordered that the inaugural of the late Emperor Frederick's mausoleum at Potsdam be celebrated on the 18th of next October, Frederick's birthday. The council of San Remo, will shortly erect two marble pillars in memory of Frederick, in front of the Villa Zirio at San Remo, where the late emperor lay ill so long.

The second mission to Germany from Morocco will arrive in Berlin in May for the purpose of buying machinery to send to Morocco for the manufacture of arms.

The Directors Responsible.

PARIS, March 29.—The trustee appointed by the tribunal of commerce to investigate the affairs of the Comptoir d' Escompte, have reported that the directors are responsible for having declared a higher dividend in January than the position of the institution justified. The report further expresses the opinion that the copper contracts made by the Comptoir were in violation of the statutes limiting the powers of the institution; and are consequently void. In pursuance of the report the directors have been summoned to appear before the judge d' instruction.

England Well Pleased with Lincoln.

LONDON, March 29. — Lord Salisbury learned of Mr. Robert Lincoln's appointment as minister to England through Viscount Cranborne last night. The latter was visiting at Earl Cowper's house, in St. James square, where the cable dispatch announcing the appointment, was read. The viscount hurried to Lord Salisbury's house, in Arlington street, and communicated the news to the premier, who was surprised, but expressed himself as pleased at the appointment.

A Conspiracy Discovered.

ZURICH, March 29.—It is stated that the Russian detectives who are seeking the arrest and extradition of certain Nihilist refugees here, have discovered a terrorist plot of gigantic proportions, extending throughout all parts of Russia. The plot includes a new and formidable series of attempts upon the life of the czar. Numerous arrests are said to have been made in Moscow, Kieff, Odessa and southern Russia in consequence of the unearthing of the conspiracy.

There Was no Duel.

VIENNA, March 29.—The report is untrue that a duel has been fought in the south of France, between Count Hoyos and Count Baltazzi, the uncle of the unfortunate Baroness Velzra. Count Henry Baltazzi is at present in Madeira, the other male members of the Baltazzi family are either in Vienna or at their Moravian residences, and Count Hoyos has recently returned to Vienna from making a visit to his brother in Paris.

Eulogy on John Bright.

LONDON, March 29.—In the house of peers last evening Lord Salisbury pronounced a eulogy upon John Bright. He paid a glowing tribute to the memory of the dead man who he said was the greatest master of English oratory of the present generation. "He possessed," said the speaker, "a singular rectitude of character and inspired his followers to pure patriotism."

Gladstone Arraigned.

LONDON, March 29.—The Times, in a leading article, referring to the universal tributes to John Bright's memory, makes this the occasion of a severe arraignment of Mr. Gladstone, whose character and career it disparagingly compares with that of the deceased statesman.

Foreign Notes.

A heavy snow storm prevails throughout Stirya. In some districts melted snow has caused extensive floods.

It is learned that the ex-Queen Natalie, of Servia, has pledged herself not to attempt to return to Belgrade at present.

The St. James Gazette says that "Mr. Robert T. Lincoln, as American minister to England, will certainly be popular."

The emperor and empress of Germany and thirty distinguished guests attended the banquet given by the British ambassador yesterday evening.

It is stated that the managers of the proposed Parnell banquet to be given on April 11 will probably be able to secure the Royal Aquarium in which to hold the affair.

The Freeman's Journal says that the appointment of Patrick Egan as American minister to Chili is a comment on England's policy in Ireland and will keenly delight Irishmen.

At the White House.

The President Still Busy in Seeing Callers.

LARGER CROWD THAN USUAL

The Lobbies and Waiting Room of the Executive Mansion Crowded Nearly All Day—Names of the Prominent People Who Called on the Newly Installed President.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A cold and rainy forenoon did not afford any respite to President Harrison from the army of callers, office-seekers and others, that congregate at the executive mansion every day. In fact, the crowd was as large as it has been any day since Gen. Harrison's inauguration. The lobbies and waiting rooms of the mansion were crowded during the entire morning and long after noon, when the hours set apart for visitors should end they were still comfortably filled.

Three members of the cabinet, Secretaries Proctor and Noble and Postmaster General Wanamaker, had interviews with the president. The latter remained for a long while, and incurred the displeasure of some of the waiting applicants for office. Justice Gray, of the supreme court, was an early caller. Senators and representatives were not numerous, but several of them brought delegations ranging from three to half a dozen.

Senators Manderson, Stanford, Farwell, Cullom, Sherman, Blair, Voorhees, Hawley, Gorman, ex-Senator Lewis, Representatives Perkins and Anderson, of Kansas, were among those who saw the president. Representative Coleman, of Louisiana, presented Rev. S. T. Clanton, of New Orleans, and a delegation of colored Baptist ministers. Gen. Harrison Allen and ex-Governor Ordway, of Dakota; ex-Marshal A. B. Norton, of Texas, the man who kept his vow not to shave or cut his hair until Henry Clay was elected president, were also among the fortunate ones who saw the president.

Representative McComas, headed a Maryland delegation that wanted to make some arrangement for the distribution of the Federal officers in Maryland, and Gen. Felix Agnus, of The Baltimore American, and Adam E. King, of Baltimore, called in the interest of applicants for positions in Baltimore.

A Letter Thief Arrested.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Oscar Rothrock, alias Samuel B. McEwen, was arrested yesterday charged with stealing letters from a mail box on Broadway, near Chambers street. The arrest was made at the instance of George Cohn. On March 14 a letter belonging to Mr. Cohn was stolen from the mail box. In it was a check drawn on a Utica bank. Rothrock is charged with sending the check to Utica after endorsing the name Samuel B. McEwan on the back of it. He asked the party to send the money in a registered letter. Several other complainants appeared against the prisoner, and he was held in $3,000 bail.

Not Allowed to Land.

NEW YORK, March 29.—A band of a dozen German musicians, among the steerage passengers of the steamship The Queen, were detained at Castle Garden yesterday, as undesirable immigrants. Information had reached the emigration commissioners that the men had made it a practice for several years to visit America in the summer months, accumulating a few hundred dollars by "street concerts," and return to Germany to invest their earnings.

Her Last Pleasure Trip.

CONTOCOOK, N. H., March 29.—Last night Miss Nellie Ross, an estimable young lady of this village, was missed from the house and a search revealed her body at the foot of a high rock. The rock afforded a pleasant view, and she is supposed to have fallen from it in a fainting fit, to which she was subject. Miss Ross had previously been a successful school teacher, but latterly had been in poor circumstances.

Failed to Keep a Promise.

AINSWORTH, Neb., March 29.—Masked men took three of the accused cattle thieves, Gannowa, Babcock and Remus, from their homes yesterday across the line into the reservation and delivered them to a band of Indians. It is believed that all three were killed. They had been released by the vigilance committee some time ago on their promise to leave, but they failed to keep the promise.

Insufficient Proof.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 29.—The cases of twenty-two of the 167 defendants indicted for election law violations were called, and motions to quash or dismiss entered. A number of the indictments were quashed outright, others were destroyed by reason of striking out certain counts, and the remainder were dismissed by the district attorney on account of insufficiency of proof.

Death of a Noted Woman.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Mrs. Eliza Davidson Rockefeller, the mother of William and John D. Rockefeller, of this city, and Frank of Cleveland, died at the home of her son William, at No. 689 Fifth avenue, yesterday morning. The body will be taken to Cleveland for burial, where the funeral services will also be held.

He Keeps Silent.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Mr. John F. Plummer, president of the Republican club and dry goods merchant, refused to either deny or affirm a story which is in circulation to the effect that President Harrison, had tendered him the position of postmaster of this city, to succeed Mr. Pearson, the present incumbent.

Mills All Running.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 29.—All the mills are running; except the American linen mills, nearly all with their full complement of weavers.

A Small Mysterious Fire.

CUBA, Ill., March 29.—A mysterious fire this morning burned Harmison's drug store and other buildings. Loss, $12,000; insurance, $6,000.

MURDER OR ACCIDENT?

Mutilated Body of a Drummer Found Near Muncie, Indiana.

MUNCIE, Ind., March 30.—Tuesday night, about 8 o'clock, Harry Bateman, a traveling man, of Fostoria, O., went to the livery barn of Collins & Long and procured a horse and buggy, saying that he wanted to drive about four miles in the country. Early Wednesday morning his body was found near the Bee Line railroad, one and a half miles from town, with his head severed from the trunk and both legs cut entirely off.

There was a contusion on his forehead made by a blunt instrument, which gives cause for the theory that he was murdered and then placed on the track, to make it appear that he had committed suicide. When found he had on his person $1.80 and a United States express receipt, showing that he had sent yesterday sent $4 to the secretary of the United States Accident Insurcompany, of New York city.

The evidence that corroborates the theory of murder is that he wore a light colored overcoat when he left the city, but when found the coat was missing. The horse returned to the livery barn forty minutes before the train mangled his body. The police are doing all they can to ferret out the mystery.

VILLAGE DEVASTATED.

Twenty-One Business Places and Several Dwellings Burned at Ashton, Illinois.

DIXON, Ill., March 29.—A fire which originated in a defective flue in the postoffice at Ashton, yesterday, burned down twenty-one business houses and several dwellings, with their contents. The loss is fully $60,000, and the insurance is light.

But four business places remain in the village. The principal business houses destroyed were the Ashton bank, the American house, Body Brothers' clothing store, Charter's drug store, Earl's grocery, Glenn & Company's dry goods store, Brown & Company's clothing store, Bothe's livery stables, Smith's book store, Belle's restaurant, Delaney's saloon and Becker's mill.

Experiments in Steel Manufacture.

PITTSBURG, March 29.—A number of gentlemen from Louisville, Ky., have spent some days at Homestead steel works of Carnegie, Phipps & Company, with Benjamin Catley, of this city, making experiments with the Redman-Tilford process of manufacturing steel, which it is said will revolutionize the process of steel making in the near future. The gentlemen are negotiating with the Carbon Iron company for the purchase of the steel plant lately owned by Messrs. Graff, Bennett & Company, which will be removed to Louisville to fully demonstrate the value of their invention. Mr. Catley is well acquainted with their requirements, and advised the purchase of this machinery, having managed this mill for a great number of years.

Detroit Beer Gulped.

DETROIT, March 29.—C. W. Voigt, doing the biggest beer brewing business in Detroit, has succumbed to the blandishments of the agents of the English brewing syndicate and given an option on his plant. Michenfelder & Company, Charles Eu lress and Jacob Mann & Company have also stated a price at which they will sell their breweries. The aggregate amount is $500,000. The bargain includes the agreement of the breweries to take one-third of the purchase price in stock, and the proprietor agrees to manage the brewery for three years, for which he will receive a salary.

Ate Three Dozen Boiled Eggs.

WINCHESTER, O., March 29.—Alf. Fenton, a prominent silversmith of this place, went home Tuesday evening and complained of being very hungry, not having eaten much for some days. He boiled and ate three dozen eggs for supper, and felt no inconvenience from the overdose. Fenton has had quite a reputation as a big eater, and carried the belt here for years.

Goes Up for Five Years.

TORONTO, Ont., March 29.—George Powell, alias Father Shanaty, alias Father Clarke, etc., the young man who in priestly garb was arrested here charged with the larceny of watches in Ottawa and who was trying to obtain $1,500 worth of diamonds from jewelers in this city, was arraigned yesterday and sentenced to Kingston penitentiary for five years.

Two Bodies in the Ruins.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., March 29.—The charred remains of a man, supposed to be Peter Greenwald, were found by the working party in the southeast corner of the ruins of the shoe factory, in Kent avenue, which were burned last Tuesday afternoon. Joseph Hannigan, aged 16 years, who jumped from the fourth-story window of the burning building, died in the hospital at noon yesterday.

Knocked Out in the Sixth Round.

BOSTON, March 29.—In the six-round fight at the Bay State Athletic club rooms last night between George Godfrey, the colored heavy-weight, and Jack Wannop, the Englishman, the latter was knocked out in the sixth round. For the the first two rounds the men seemed evenly matched, but after that Wannop was not in it. The fight was for a purse of $600, $400 to the winner.

Orphan Children Seeking Homes.

PORTLAND, Me., March 29.—Yesterday a band of about seventy-five children, who had arrived on the steamship Parisian from England, left here for Quebec. The are sent by the English government to Mrs. Burt's home, and from there will find situations among the farmers of Canada. The children looked well and hearty, and were in good spirits.

The Cleveland Party at Tampa.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 29.—A Lakeland special says the Cleveland party arrived at Tampa yesterday afternoon. They were entertained at the new hotel and driven out to Ybar City where they inspected the immense cigar factories. From there they took a special train for Sanford and Orlando.

A Wrestling Challenge.

BOSTON, March 29.—William Muldoon has posted a forfeit for a match to throw Pierre, Greek George, Cannon or Duncan Ross, five times in one hour, Graeco-Roman style. He also challenges any man in the world to wrestle for $500 to $1,000 a side.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Quotations for the Money, Stock, Produce and Cattle Market for March 28.

NEW YORK, Money 3@5 per cent. Exchange steady; government steady.

Currency sixes, 120 bid; four coupons, 125½ bid; fours, 108 bid.

The stock market was strong at the opening, and in the early dealings a vigorous buying of the grangers, Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis and a few other leaders, prices advanced ¼ to 2⅜ per cent. The strength did not last long, however. The advance brought out large offerings for the purpose of realizing, which, together with a raid on Reading, resulted in sending prices down by 1½ @ 6 cts., to about those of last evening. At this writing the market is dull.

FRIDAY, - - - - MARCH 29.

THE disgraceful incident at Music Hall last night calls to mind the fact of a considerable influx of gambling sharks and black legs to Marion recently, and the startling fact that they are thriving unmolested. We do not wish to be sensational and blacken Marion's fair name with an exaggerated picture, but the fact exists that there is a well-dressed gang of professional gambling sharks making this city their headquarters and they are living without busines or labor on the fleeces they secure off innocents by robbery at the gaming tables. We are not without appreciation of the delicacy of this subject, for many highly esteemed people indulge in "a little game" occasionally, but the city needs to be ridded of these prfessional sharks, even if a sacrifice is required. It is no easy matter for the authorities, valid evidence is hard to secure, but neighboring cities are bouncing them bodily and Marion can't afford to leave them fatten here or make this a place of refuge. If mild means won't eradicate the evil, let the methods of the doctors be pursued and heroic treatment be prescribed.

THERE is a howl because the STAR gave its convictions on the action of scheming politicians who want the School Board made subservient to political interests, and we hear the hoary headed whine about a non-partisan paper taking sides. It was ever thus, indeed the readers of Marion newspapers are so unused to frank, out-spoken editorials on local public matters that we cause a flutter whenever we give a few pointers without ambiguity and equivocation. But we have never learned to fancy such a course. The STAR isn't run on the principle of fearing everybody and favoring nothing. We are here to discuss public matters and shall do so conscientiously, trusting to honest public opinion for endorsement of such a course.

EVERY train into Mt. Vernon carries a plurality of office seekers and their friends who are landed at the Knox County seat to interview the genial Col. Cooper. We have it that even the freight trains are loaded with the various Ninth district office seekers, and that Marion County is fairly well represented We believe that Col. Cooper will follow the example of the President and keep out of the factional warfares, and several aspirants in this section may as well consider themselves shelved.

DR. MCMURRAY was strong in the belief yesterday that we had done him an injury and he wanted a vindication. The use of our columns was tendered, but the Doctor's communication was recalled before it reached the compositor. Hence we assume that there is nothing to vindicate. After thinking the matter over soberly he probably concluded the subject to be a hot iron that ought to be dropped.

THE attempt to make the School Board a political institution to be demoralized under the influence of "perniciously active" politicians, has set the people to thinking and the dissatisfied Democrats will find they have undertaken a tremendous big job. The people are too well pleased with the admirable management of the schools to submit to such a scheme.

THE Mirror handles the School Board matter with tenderness and general fear, its editorial indicating a desire to put it under Democratic control but at the same time showing fear of offending the level-headed Democrats who oppose the scheme. The Mirror is a great paper.

WHAT an opportunity the great and only Col. Boone misses just now. If the famous Black Diamond had only been completed to Mt. Vernon when promised, the local traffic between Marion and Mt. Vernon just now would pay the running expenses of the road.

Brought Home to Her.

A few evenings since a lady who was giving a little private party was saying all manner of severe things about the proposed lottery. In the midst of her pious indignation an old gentleman, sitting on the opposite side of the table, said quietly:

"Madame, did you not once sell me two tickets in a church raffle?"

The woman hesitated, and finally said: "Perhaps I did."

"Fancy cake basket, wasn't it?"

She colored up, and, after an embarrassed cough, said feebly: "I believe so."

"Did the drawing ever come off, and, if so, what was the winning number?"

The lady made a strong effort and said she had forgotten.

"The reason I recalled the circumstance," continued the old gentleman blandly, "was that I noticed the cake basket on the table." And he looked at the aforesaid piece of silver in a smiling way.

There was a dead silence all around the table, for several of the guests remembered having purchased those same tickets, and they couldn't remember, either, just when that drawing took place.—Carson (Nev.) Appeal.

Prospect.

The wheat needs rain very much in this locality. Farmers are busy plowing and sowing their oats.

The winter term of school at Jonesville, taught by J. F. Moore, closed last Friday. A large crowd was present and a pleasant literary program was given by the school in the afternoon.

E. J. Lewis shipped a car load of cattle to Buffalo Saturday. Her reports a very fair sale. John Stuckey has combined his meat shop with that of Geo. Milhouse. They will occupy the room formerly occupied by Jno. Flach.

Quite an excitement was caused last Saturday by a wordy warfare between our editors, VanWinkle and Clowes, about some business matters relating to themselves. I think they were fined two dollars each.

R. L. Riley was at Marion Saturday, on business.

Eity Idelman has sold his house and lot drays and horses to a Mr Shultz. The change will be made April 1st.

The little children of Mrs. Sophia Howison will shortly be sent to a school in Indiana, which is under the control of the Lutheran sect.

Samuel Willaner has purchased a new traction engine and separator and will be ready to commence threshing when the season begins.

Joe Osborn was in Marion Monday, on business and did not complete it until Tuesday.

Dr. D. H. Masters made a flying business trip to Marion.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Wottring will arrive home Friday from an extended visit to Pennsylvania.

Public examinations of city schools this week. The School Board has retained Prof. Miller for another year as superintendent.

W. C. Wottring and J. F. Miller spent a few hours in Richwood last Friday night.

The Democrats meet to nominate a township ticket Saturday afternoon. The Prohibitionists meet Wednesday evening.

A. C. Mounts was in Marion Monday, uniting business with pleasure.

The last lecture of the lecture course will be given at the Opera House, Tuesday evening, April 2d. The lecture will be delivered by E. H. Votaw, subject "Dreams and Day Dreamers."

J. H. Thomas, of Marion, was in town Wednesday and bought a fine driving buggy of C. Able.

T. J. Oswald has been appointed clerk of township by the trustees to fill vacancy caused by the death of M. W. Potty.

It is a sure thing that Prospect is to have a ball club for the season of '89, which will be by far the strongest we have ever had. Can't Marion county form an association for the year?

The Republicans of Prospect will meet in convention at Town Hall Friday evening to nominate a township and corporation ticket.

A. D. Matthews, of Marion, spent Sunday with relatives in Prospect.

Leonzo Bros.

Marion seldom has a better performance in the theatrical line than that of "Brother Against Brother," by Leonzo Bros. and company, at Music Hall, Thursday night. It is unfortunate that a larger house was not present to enjoy the excellent rendition.

"Brother Against Brother" is a clean cut drama, true to life and full of highly interesting dramatic situations. The admirable dogs proved a pleasing feature, and they added largely to the play, though their absence would not have impaired its worth.

The part of Carl was splendidly taken by the younger Leonzo, and the rendition of the character of Frank Bell was as neat a piece of acting as Marion has ever witnessed. The ladies and the remainder of the gentlemen sustained their parts well, and the exceptionally fine costumes and excellent orchestra added much to the pleasures and success of the play.

Should Leonzo Bros. stop at Marion again Music Hall will be inadequate to hold the crowd.

Agricultural Meeting.

A joint county meeting of Agricultural Society directors was held in this city Wednesday, to confer on matters of mutual interest. Mr. Leggett, of Union county, presided, and H. M. Ault acted as secretary. Union county was represented by E. W. Pater, John Robinson, Jas. Kackley, J. P. Martin and G. Leggett; Crawford county by J. W. Clement and J. H. Quantare; Morrow county by T. D. Riddle; and Marion county by Messrs. Reber, Kelly, Rhoads and Howser.

It was decided to appoint a committee of one or more from each county to meet at Marion on October 15th, 1889, to fix dates of fairs for the following year so they would not conflict.

Hie, for West Point!

EDITOR STAR—Will you please announce that on Thursday, April 18th, 1889, at 10 a. m., at Mt. Vernon, Ohio, there will be held a competitive examination for the appointment to West Point for this Ninth Congressional District, for the term commencing June next. W. C. COOPER.

Grandma in a Box.

Bobby (who is visiting his kind old grandmother)—I wouldn't mind eatin' some of that nice hot bread, grandma. Grandma—Well, Bobby, you can have all you want of it. Bobby—Yes, but ma won't let me eat hot bread. Grandma (testing the lad's moral strength)—She won't know anything about it, Bobby. Bobby—All right, grandma, just give me a piece, please.—Harper's Bazar

BILL NYE GOES SHOPPING.

He says He Likes to Shop Better in Boston Than in Gotham.

I always go and visit the Old South church when in Boston, because I like to see the old and pleasant cannon balls with which disagreeable people were killed when they acted improperly. I also like to attend a church where I can criticise things without hurting any one's feelings. After I visit the old church I like to go around over the Hub and buy things. I hate to contrast my city with my own town, but a nervous person with a shrinking nature can do better and enjoy it better while shopping in Boston than in New York. The Boston merchant evidently bought his goods for the purpose of selling them to the consumer, while the New York merchant appears to have purchased them more for the wild excitement of looking at them himself.

I always have my feelings hurt when I shop in New York. In the first place, I am enraged before I get to the store by 987,236 people who knock me over and get on the elevated trains before the passengers can get off. Then I go to a store and wait near a stack of wet umbrellas until several total strangers, with a haughty air, jostle me against the wall.

I next speak to a floor walker, who plays that he owns the store, and is allowed to draw that instead of a salary. He looks at me askance, as if he feared that I might be Nellie Bly. He goes over to confer with a heavy set saleslady, to inquire of her, evidently, whether I am there with sinister motives, and while I tremble at the thought that I am about to be searched for said motives, another man, who plays that he owns the store afternoons, comes along and asks me what I want there.

I tell him that I am a simple minded man, more or less picked on both at home and abroad, that I would spend an enormous amount of money in New York if I had a chance, that today I had contemplated buying or trading for a full set of two heavy No. 10 English hose with double soles and a striking resemblance to each other. Nobody could be any more explicit than that without being offensive. I just tell a man what I want right at the start, and then if there should be any delay it is his fault.

He looks at me sorrowfully and begins to feel in his pocket for something. I say, "Put up your gold. Get out with your dross. I am not poor or crazed by suffering. I am only waiting to present a letter of introduction to the sock lady if I can obtain an audience with her. I would be satisfied with even a very small audience with her." He tells me where the office is, and I go there. She wants a long time before I seem to catch her eye. She looks through me, and so on across the store to a given point. She then says:

"Well?" "Socks?"

"Yes?" "Yes?"

"What kind, please?" "English hose, double sole, unbleached, No. 10, two of a kind."

"For yourself?" "Yes, exclusively for my self."

"Well, the men's hose is on second floor facing the other street."

I then go to a hotel, register, get a room, ring for a messenger and send him for the hose.—Bill Nye in New York World.

A Poor Theory.

Stranger—I see it reported that those soldiers' orphans were only shamming insanity so as to save the trouble of going to their meals.

Philadelphian—Were you ever a boy?

"I should say I was."

"So was I. Suppose in your boyhood days you had been informed that a big meal was waiting for you on the other side of a mountain, but if you didn't feel like going for it you could have some tea and toast."

"Whoop! I'd have climbed the mountain."—Philadelphia Record.

Did Bacon Write Sheridan, Too?

Overheard in a Cambridge car: "Don't you love Shakespeare?" "Oh, yes! I just dote on him. I saw 'School for Scandal' the other night. You know that's one of Shakespeare's best plays?"—Boston Herald

The PeeWee Hat.

There's hats 'nd then, ag'in there's hats,
As you a ready know,
There's hats 'at's made for comfort
'Nd there's hats 'at's made for show.
There's them 'at's low 'nd squatty,
'Nd, then, there's them 'at's higher—
'Nd you kin see a job lot,
Just by lookin' at ever choir

There's them 'at's high 'nd crooked,
Jammed in 'nd skewed awry—
The durndest shapes 'nd traits
All p'intin' to the sky.
You wouldn't know they wuz hats,
Except for bein' on a
Girl fixed up all scrumptious—
Like she was a preemy donna

There's just one little peewee hat
'At sets close on the head,
'Nd all made out of feathers like—
A-grantin' blue 'nd red;
It's mighty purt 'nd smugilike,
'Nd takin'—yes, you bet!
But 'taint much on bein' warm
'Nd keepin' off the wet.

There's just a nothin' to it
Only its beauty 'nd its grace,
A snuggin' close as it kin get
To just the purt, e fect face
'At sets the hull caboodle
Of the girl's 'at's in the choir—
I only wish 'at I wuz it
'Nd could get just as nigh 'er.

IT MADE MOTHER STRONG

"My mother has been using PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND for nervous prostration, accompanied by melancholia, etc., and it has done her a world of good. It is the only medicine that strengthens the nerves."
G. H. BEERS, Orbisonia, Pa.

"I am in my 64th year. Have been afflicted in several ways—could not sleep, had no appetite, no courage, low spirits. I commenced using Paine's Celery Compound, and felt relief from the third day after using it. I now have a good appetite and can sleep well. My spirits and courage are almost like those of a young man."
S. C. KIMBALL, D. D., Gonzales, La.

Paine's Celery Compound

Strengthens and builds up the old, and cures their infirmities. Rheumatism, indigestion and nervousness yield quickly to the curative power of Paine's Celery Compound.

A Perfect Tonic and Invigorator. It GIVES NEW LIFE.

"I am now 69 years old and have tried several remedies, but none had any effect until I took Paine's Celery Compound. I feel entirely different for the short time I have used it. I can walk nearly straight, sleep sound and well, and feel as though there was new life and energy coming into my whole system."
H. MYERS, Cleveland, Tenn.

Paine's Celery Compound is of unequaled value to women. It strengthens the nerves, regulates the kidneys, and has wonderful power in curing the painful diseases with which women so often silently suffer.

LONG LIFE

There is nothing in the world more generally desired than long life, yet the majority of people put off caring for their health—not because they are really careless, but because we live our lives at such a pace we have not time to give the subject sufficient thought until we receive a reminder in the shape of a severe illness.

Then, too, we are constantly bewildered by the various schools of medicine, and the physicians who represent them, and often blunder in our choice of a doctor.

If people only knew that the very best health-keeper, life-preserver, and disease-preventer that has yet been discovered, is simmered down into a concentrated and very palatable form in the shape of New Style Pleasant Taste Vinegar Bitters, they would not hesitate a moment to try it.

But they do not know. How can they know, when so many not only worthless, but positively injurious drugs are constantly flooding the market under various names guises, that the New Style Vinegar Bitters is as bad as any of them?

They do not know, of course, unless they have the courage to try the New Style. It straightens out a tangled-up system in a very short while, and those who buy it once buy it always.

Why don't you try it, reader? It is sent out by a responsible house, and is exactly as represented. It costs but a dollar for a very large bottle. Try it once and you will never be so glad of anything in your life. Your druggist may not have it, but he will order it for you. Be sure it says New Style Pleasant Taste on carton and bottle before you take it. Try it, and you will feel happier than if you had found a gold mine, for it really is a mine—of health.

WHAT SHALL WE WEAR?

LONDON, PARIS AND NEW YORK FASHIONS.

The New Court Bodices Approved by Queen Victoria and Offering Suggestions in Way of Evening Toilets to Ladies Who Cannot Wear Decollete.

Since Queen Victoria has been pleased to permit the wearing of a high court dress at her majesty's drawing rooms, and Mrs. President Harrison has announced her intention to wear gowns made with a high bodice, evening toilets that cover the shoulders deserve some attention.

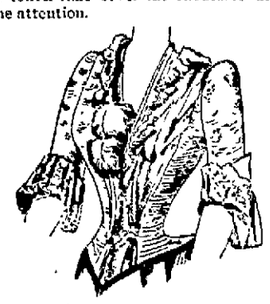

FIG. 1—A NEW COURT BODICE.

The accompanying illustrations show the new court bodices. The first one is cut half high and is made of watered silk, the opening bordered by a cascade of lace, within which is a lisse fichu. Those who desire to have an entirely high bodice can have this filled up to the throat with lisse, lined with white silk, if it is needed thicker. It is essential that the addition, whether thin or thick, be white. The sleeves fall to the elbow, and are finished by lace ruffles, arranged to show the arm to the best advantage, the lace drooping gracefully at the back. The sleeves may, if desired, be entirely transparent. The sleeves in the other bodice are cut exactly on the same principle, the lace headed by a turn back cuff of the material.

The V shaped opening in front is bordered with lace and has a revers on either side. This pattern bodice is made in olive velvet, but it may be copied in any other material. A white stomacher of satin, with a lattice work of pearls, comes from the point at the waist to the bust, where it is met by the lace, and beneath it soft folds of lisse, which can be lined or left as they are. The arrangement of the lace permits the neck to be partly or entirely shown if desired in front, and the jewels can be attached in such a way as to effect this. There is a short, square collar at the back of the neck, with the lace within; but it is not sufficiently large to form a ruff. It is a graceful, picturesque bodice, the idea inspired by a painting of a lady in the past century, which hangs on the walls at the South Kensington picture gallery.

Fashions for Summer Dresses.

The empire waist so suitable for thin summer goods is similar to an ordinary belted waist, with all its features accentuated, and worn with a broad sash. The fronts of this waist are gathered on the shoulders and lap in surplice fashion on the bust, and sometimes the back is also lapped. Other waists have the fronts gathered to the shoulders of the plain back and open in V shape at the throat, then drawn down to the waist line, while still others are draped across the front in curving folds and trimmed down only one side. The full, straight skirt is in keeping with these waists.

Full figures do not look well in belted waists, and should wear instead basques or round waists made with darts and side forms. The princesse dress so becoming to full, rounded figures is being made up in various ways in all cotton stuffs. Long polonaises in princesse shape very slightly draped on the left side, and the directoire redingotes with separate panels in the back and sides, are made of plain Chambery or fawn to wear above embroidered skirts that may be of the same fabric or else of white embroidered muslin.—Harper's Bazar.

Fashions in Flowers.

Real flowers, instead of favors, have been freely distributed of late among wedding guests. At one wedding each favor was composed of a Marshal Niel rose, a spray of orange blossom and a sprig of white heath (a badge), at another lilies of the valley and their leaves, tied with silver cord and tassels, and accompanied by a pearl headed pin to fix it in by. The flowers will be those of the season, as the time goes on, till we arrive at the month of roses. A few bridal and ball bouquets have recently been made up on a flat circular or oval frame, with curled ostrich tips placed round the edge, and all the delicate blooms massed within the plumed ring. A large bow at the handle and a back of drawn lace or satin completed the arrangement. For room decorations great branches of lemon and orange trees, with fruit on them, are put into large, tall receptacles. These are costly; but in many cases the leaves and branches are not the real thing, though many people fail to detect it, and the fruit is cleverly attached. The effect is excellent.

Spring Millinery.

In bonnets there is not so much change of style, except that they are smaller and lower than they were last year. A pretty little French one in black lace, with small green velvet bows, had a front of delicate pink roses, under a fall of the fine black lace. The bows were placed, one a little to one side of the front, and the other at the back, where it broke the straight edge. Another, in the same mixture of color, had an open network crown in jet and silk twist, and there were pale green roses as well as the pink. These green roses appear in various bonnets which have green in their trimmings, and, though unlike anything in nature, they serve their purpose in repeating and harmonizing tones.

Fashionable Colors.

Green is likely this year to be first favorite among the colors, but it is not the bright yellowish shade of last season, but a grayer, cooler tone. Fawn color and gray will also be extensively worn. Stripes, though still popular, have yielded somewhat to a wide bordering, which, on a plain groundwork, looks remarkably well made up in the simple style which is now the highest elegance.

PHYSIOLOGY AND HYGIENE.

Postage Stamps, Bank Notes and Coins as Carriers of Disease Germs.

"Danger in the postage stamp" is one of the latest warnings. According to Sanitary News, a postage stamp may in various ways transmit disease. One of the simplest and most plausible is that in which a postage stamp, partly attached to a letter to pay return postage, is sent by a person infected with some disease.

The disease is transferred, in the first place, to the adhesive stamp through the saliva, and in being attached to the letter by the receiver the poison may be transmitted to him in turn through the saliva. Another cause may be the infection of the stamp with disease germs. The stamp, having been exposed in a room where a diseased person lies, may become slightly moistened, and thus retain the germ. That this is true can be proved very simply by a microscopical examination. We often see a person holding change for a moment in the mouth, probable not knowing that investigation has shown that disease germs can be carried by money. If any one could see through what hands the money has passed, he would hesitate before using such a third hand. Silver money is as bad as paper money; but, while many would hesitate to hold a dirty bank note in their mouth, they think that a silver piece, because bright, is apparently clean.

Precaution in Hypodermic Medication.

Solutions of the alkaloids soon decompose, and, for use in hypodermic medications, should therefore be freshly prepared. Where tabloids are preferred, commence with the smallest size. The dose hypodermically is less than by the stomach.

Great care should be taken not to throw the injection into a vein, and so produce a sudden overwhelming effect. Fatal collapse might ensue from injecting air into a vein. While absorption of an injection over the temple or chest is twice as rapid as elsewhere, it should be remembered that, in the chest, it has been followed by instant death.

Syncope may follow an injection, if the patient do not remain quiet and lying down.

For safety and freedom from pain, an injection should be made in the outside of the arms or thighs, or in the abdomen or back. Injections should not be made over bony prominences or into inflamed or tense tissues. Mercury, ergot, etc., are best injected into muscles, as in the nates.

The Hospital Gazette, in advising the above precautions, adds that it is not usually considered safe to repeat an injection (as of morphine) sooner than half an hour.

To Increase or Reduce Weight.

Kansas City Medical Index gives the following rules, of interest to fat people and to lean:

To increase the weight: Eat, to the extent of satisfying a natural appetite, of fat meats, butter, cream, milk, cocoa, chocolate, bread, potatoes, peas, parsnips, carrots, beets, farinaceous foods, as Indian corn, rice, tapioca, sago, corn starch, pastry, custards, oatmeal, sugar, sweet wines and ale. Avoid acids. Exercise as little as possible; sleep all you can, and don't worry or fret.

To reduce the weight: Eat, to the extent of satisfying a natural appetite, of lean meat, poultry, game, eggs, milk moderately, green vegetables, turnips, succulent fruits, tea or coffee. Drink lime juice, lemonade and acid drinks. Avoid fat, butter, cream, sugar, pastry, rice, sago, tapioca, corn starch, potatoes, carrots, beets, parsnips and sweet wines. Exercise freely.

SOCIAL ETIQUETTE.

Small but Significant Points in Good Manners at the Table.

"It is said that Cardinal Richelieu detected an adventurer who was passing himself off for a nobleman by his helping himself to olives with a fork because it was the custom then, as it now is, to help one's self from the dish with the fingers if an olive fork is not provided." With the foregoing Good Housekeeping prefaces some advice on small matters of table etiquette, among which are the following points: Forks for the olive dish alone are now manufactured and are very generally used, but after the olive has reached the plate it is always carried to the mouth with the fingers. Of course we are not referring to the stuffed olives bottled in oil.

Those who are very particular, hold the large end of a spear of asparagus with a fork, while with the tipend of a knife they daintily separate the tender green tops from the white ends, which is then put aside. Others take the white end between the fingers and carry it to the mouth. Both are correct, but the former is much more daintily and easily done.

The etiquette of eating a soft boiled egg has been the subject of more than one clever essay. The English custom is to eat it directly from the shell, when of course a small egg cup and egg spoon are necessary. The American way is to break the egg into a cup or glass by striking the shell in the center and turning the contents into the glass. In this case it is usually eaten with a teaspoon, as an egg spoon, unless extra large, would be too small, and we have seen the egg held by a corner of the napkin, but this is not only tiresome but difficult to do nicely, without soiling the napkin.

Celery is always taken from the dish and carried to the mouth by the fingers. If individual salts are not provided, it is etiquette to use one-half of the butter plate for salt. If salt shakers are used, hold the celery in the left hand just over the rim of your plate and gently sprinkle it with salt, and the old custom of putting a spoonful of salt on the cloth is still in practice. When corn is served on the cob it must be taken in the fingers, only managed very daintily. We have seen pretty little doylies for the purpose of holding it, but it is a question if that is not carrying table linen too far.

Lettuce, when served without dressing, is usually pulled to pieces with the fingers.

Watercress is also taken with the fingers, and the prettiest way of serving it is to obtain a long, low sided basket or dish, in the bottom of which lay a folded napkin, then heap the cress so as to fill the basket, and you have not only an enjoyable but a very ornamental dish for the breakfast table.

When a slice of lemon is served with fish or meat it is much more correct to take the slice in the fingers, double the ends together and gently squeeze the juice over the article than to use a knife for that purpose, as is sometimes done.

It is always proper to help one's self to bread, cheese and lump sugar with the fingers, if tongs are not provided. Never use your own knife, fork or spoon to take from the dish.

Social Maxims from Sundry Sources.

In a thoroughly well bred person all the angles of personal vanity and self consciousness are rounded off. This is the perfection of culture.

Society brightens up the wits and causes the dullest mind to bring its treasures to the surface.

One of the minor morals of fashion is this: "Never show temper." There is a great deal of temper evolved by the pursuit of pleasure in the hot house air of "our best society." Thus a safety gauze mask of self control and of a good temper, which is a virtue we "must assume if we have it not," is necessary.

CABLING IN CIPHER.

OUTWITTING THE COMPANIES BY CHEAPENING DEVICES.

There Are Many Codes, but Constant Changes Are Necessitated—The Sharp Eye of the Managers Ever Watching. Important Part Played by Competition.

A man who had received a cable message composed of nothing but names of cities went to an expert maker of cipher codes to see if he could throw any light on the meaning.

"Have you made no personal arrangement with any correspondent by which those names of cities are to stand for certain phrases?" asked the expert.

"I have not," answered the man. "I came to you because I thought you might have a cipher code containing the ciphers."

"The printed code that contains proper names as ciphers," said the expert. "The reason is this: The cable companies accepted all kinds of business at first, even combinations of letters which spelled nothing. But they soon found that the ingenuity of their merchant patrons enabled them to send almost any message at the cost of but a few words, by devising codes wherein each letter stood for a phrase, and wherein even the juxtaposition of letters and numerals, which in themselves had meanings, indicated still other meanings. Of course this reduced the profits of the cable companies, so they began to make rules. They refused to transmit any combination of letters unless it spelled an actual word. Then they limited the number of languages they would transmit. Then they refused to take proper names, unless the context showed they were a proper part.

"All this, of course, was to make it so hard to get up satisfactory and permanent cable codes that the merchant would be compelled for safety's sake to resort to straight out and out discourse in framing his messages. But as the difficulties increased men began to make specialties of devising ingenious codes, and finally the companies had to come out flat footed and refuse to transmit messages in cipher. Of course this was a severe blow to trade, as a vast quantity of small business could not then be done, because the cost of cabling about it cut off most of the eventual profit.

CARRIE WAS VERY ILL.

"But even then codes were used, but of a curious sort. In one that I know of, for instance, it was arranged that a certain large catalogue of common verbs, nouns, adjectives and prepositions should be understood to have no meaning whatever. The cipher words were made up outside of this catalogue, and the exempted words were used to fill in, giving the semblance of an actual, straight out sentence. Here was a sentence, for instance, that I cabled while a clerk in a shipping house:

"Carrie very ill. Tell Thomas prepare nitrate; Ananias going; telegraph Josephine.

"That looks innocent; yet this is what it meant:

"Carry—Market on eve of a sharp rise.
"Very—Buy for speculation.
"Ill—No meaning.
"Tell—No meaning.
"Thomas—Ship at earliest dispatch.
"Prepare—One hundred tons.
"Nitrate—Nitrate of soda (saltpeter).
"Ananias—We can sell at.
"Going—No meaning.
"Josephine—Nine cents.

"So you see I really sent this message: 'Market on eve of a sharp rise. Buy for speculation. Ship 100 tons nitrate of soda at earliest dispatch. We can sell at 9 cents.' Telegraph.

"That is to say, I sent twenty-six words at a cost of eleven words, while I appeared to the cable company to be merely transmitting a communication that poor Carrie was sick, and that Ananias was going to telegraph Josephine about it. It must have seemed strange to the operators that we should telegraph Thomas, who was 5,000 miles away, to prepare medicine for Carrie, who was presumably in New York, especially as the rate then was about $6 a word. It must also have seemed strange that Carrie got very ill every time there was a rise in the nitrate market. But the message was straight discourse, and of course the companies had nothing to do but accept the message.

"NO CIPHERS PERMITTED."

"Competition finally came to the merchant's aid. New cable lines, seeking business, offered more liberal conditions, and gradually the merchant acquired, as his recognized right, the power of using a cipher code. Still, most of the original petty restrictions were adopted by all competitors. Among these were the regulations against proper names. As a matter of fact, in the present state of competition, one is tolerably safe in using proper names and ciphers, for each company is afraid of driving custom to a rival by applying the rule. Consequently there are any number of small personal or temporary codes agreed upon between man and man to serve a certain immediate purpose, in which names of towns or persons figure as ciphers. But we professional code makers, who compile and print expensive codes for sale to the public, carefully avoid infringing even dead letter rules, because we do not know when some big cable company may swallow up a smaller competitor whom one of our patrons patronizes and screw down the thumbs on some rule, to the disadvantage of our patron and ourselves.

"Looking over this catalogue here of the cable lines of the world, you will still find a dozen or more companies, chiefly located in the ends of Asia, Africa and Polynesia, who boldly advertise, 'No ciphers permitted.' That means that they have a monopoly of their particular fields and are working their diamond mines for all they're worth. In no line of business is the advantage of good competition shown more strongly than in cabling. Merchants who deal with far off countries will tell you that those lands which are reached by only one cable line are as yet practically undiscovered by trade."—New York Sun.

A bridegroom at Monroe, Ga., being without money, gave the justice a little rabbit dog which he had with him.

They Got the Pig.

Speaking of the toll gate near the pool, which was the last on the old Boston and Albany line to be torn down, recalls to memory an amusing incident which old Dr. Shaw, its keeper, used to relate.

Shaw used to travel with an old ventriloquist by the name of Potter some years before he began to tend the gate, and he was a pretty clever magician, the doctor was, so the two hitched up well together.

Well, the story goes that Potter and Shaw were riding in 'Reub' Underwood's coach over the Monson and Southbridge line, and the vehicle was crowded with passengers who considered themselves pretty high toned folks, and I guess they really were.

At any rate when the stage arrived at Southbridge they all got out and went into the tavern there to get dinner. The party sat down at the table and Potter, the ventriloquist, who was a stranger to all excepting Shaw, came in after taking a sip of "toddy" and sat down also at the same table. A roast pig was brought in on a platter by the servant and set upon the table, and just after one member of the party had finished saying grace and began carving the pig, it squealed terrifically, and the majority of the members of the party not knowing that Potter was a ventriloquist, as I said, thought for a moment that the pig was alive, and after screeching and screaming, the carver simultaneously throwing his knife and fork across the dining room, got up and left the table, leaving Potter and Shaw to finish the pig.—Boston Globe.

He Still Lives.

He stood on the steps of the City Hall yesterday and blew his nose and wiped his eyes and steadied himself by one of the stone columns, and when he was asked if he were ill he replied;

"You bet I'm ill! Tain't in the body, but right here—right here in the heart!"

"Are you subject to heart trouble?"

"You bet! Heart's allus been troubled. That's why I drink."

"Have you been drinking?"

"'Course I have. I'm three drinks high. That's why I cry. When I get about half drunk I feel so sad and lonesome that I wouldn't give a frozen banana to live another day."

"Do you feel that way now?"

"I do. I don't care to live another minute. I'd welcome death with outstretched arms!"

"Poor man!"

"Don't! Sympathy allus breaks me down. Three drinks and a few kind words make a child of me. Please go away and let me stand here and freeze to death. I'm no good on earth. I want to die."

The policeman on duty in the lower corridor was informed of the case, and he went out and gave the man the collar. Presto change! He had scarcely got hold of him when the sorrowful hearted began to resist in the most vigorous manner, and as he was finally landed in the patrol wagon he called out: "Old fel, I've got my eye on you, and I want to live a thousand years to get even!"—Detroit Free Press.

Gen. Sherman at the Play.

Most people are aware that Gen. W. T. Sherman is a resident of New York, and that he is one of the most tireless of theatre goers. He is a first nighter, and usually a conspicuous figure on an aisle seat or in a proscenium box. A peculiarity of the general's is that he seems to forget that any one besides himself is in the theatre. He talks to his companion about the people on the stage in a tone of voice easily audible up in the balcony. He coughs, clears his throat, blows his nose with a sound like a steam whistle, and actually bellows out his remarks without regard of his surroundings. The other night at one of the fashionable houses he broke in upon a perfectly silent bit of stage action, which was being worked out by a young actress, with the stentorian praise of:

"She's going to make an actress."

Everybody near him stared and then laughed. The general did not appear to be aware he had been heard, coughed, blew his nose audibly, and then settled back into his big collar with a loud grunt of utter contentment. At that theatre, where everybody knows the old warrior, his rumbling interruptions are accepted good naturedly.—New York Letter to Pittsburg Post.

"Green's Funeral Tune."

The Listener knows a distinguished musical critic who has a playful side to his character and, who, for instance, had the performance of "Verdi's Requiem Mass" down on his budget of memoranda the other day as "Green's funeral tune." At the hall the Listener encountered the great critic as he was coming out.

"How did you like it?" asked the Listener.

"It was great; I think I never heard the tune played so well in my life."

And he passed on. Just behind the Listener were two good looking girls, who had been in a state of perfunctory rapture over the performance. One of them whispered to her companion:

"Did you hear what that man called the requiem? A tune! How perfectly shocking! I should think people so ignorant as that would stay away from concerts!"—Boston Transcript.

Complete Rest.

Fred's mamma was not at all well, and the doctor said she must "take a complete rest" at once. So presently the family took wing for Northport, in the wilds of Maine. The first night of their sojourn there mamma was putting Fred to bed, and, as usual, called him to her side to say his prayers. The little fellow's face was an interrogation point of astonishment and dismay, and no persuasion could induce him to pray. Mamma looked puzzled and grieved; whereupon her little son, with an unlifting of his small pug nose suggestive of infinite disgust, proceeded to enlighten her mind: "Why, mamma! the doctor said we must take a complete rest!"—New York Tribune.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS

Ward Candidates Selected and Delegates Chosen—The Ticket.

The Republican ward conventions were held on Thursday night at the various places announced, but no extensive interest was manifested. The nominations were as follows.

First ward—Councilman, Sig Probst; Assessor, Maj S. N. Titus

Second ward—For Councilman, B F. Waples, the independent candidate was endorsed, Assessor, J. T. Shadiker.

Third ward—Councilman, Dr. F. M. Thomas, Assessor, J. E Crow.

Fourth ward—Councilman, Schill Fogleson, Assessor, O W. Johnston.

The various delegates were instructed to vote for an endorsement of E. G. Young and J. J. Hane for members of the School Board.

I. H. Hamm, temporary night operator, went to Leesville Wednesday to work nights. T. J. Martin, agent, does the night work in his absence

Morral was the scene of unusual festivities Wednesday evening, in consequence of two weddings. At the residence of Samuel Morral, W. D. Lupton and Miss Rosa Morral, by Rev. Furby, of Fowler Mills, useful and beautiful presents. At the residence of Abel Martin, Will Mader and Rose Martin, by Rev. Sutton, of Green Camp. They have our "mutual" good wishes.

A most excellent series of meeting are being held in the P. B. Church here, Rev. Miner officiating, assisted by Revs Sutton, Cranston and Jackson. There have been many conversions and a great interest is manifested.

The good people of Morral may be seen any day wending their way to Marion to procure the necessaries of life. We have two good "to stores here, but from some cause they are slowly pining away. This would be a good place for some one to locate a good store.

Burglars at George Christians.

Burglars gained an entrance to the residence of G. B. Christian on west South street, Thursday night, and secured about $150 in money and valuables. Among the articles taken were a cameo set of jewelry, an amethyst ring, a card case, an overcoat and watch, and chain belonging to George, Jr., the latter having been presented to him a few days ago as a birthday gift also a pocketbook belonging to Miss Minnie and which contained about $8 in money

An entrance was gained to the house through a front window from the veranda, and several rooms were thoroughly ransacked. During their search several articles of value were overlooked among which were a set of sound good beads and a revolver belonging to George, Sr., and quite a sum of money.

It was the fourth visit to the Christian residence of this kind, and, as usual there is a new crop of robberies.

A Disgraceful Affair.

The play at Music Hall was interrupted Thursday night by a fight caused by Andy Quigley, of unsavory reputation, who attempted to secure a fifty cent seat on a thirty-five cent ticket. The door-keeper was endeavoring to get him to take the kind of seat he paid for when he struck the door-keeper. The latter returned the blow, then Officer Masterson rushed in and he, too received a blow from Quigley. The play was stopped by the racket that followed, but the officer soon had the belligerents outside and under arrest. The door-keeper was allowed to return to his post and was embarrassed later when given a hearing, but Quigley was fined, with the costs, to the extent of $9 75.
